Part 2: Step Into the Energy of Money

Most people walk around their life not being consciously connected to feelings about money that are positive, honor their values, help them feel empowered, and energize them into authentic, aligned action.

As a result, people are often negative, disconnected from what is important to them, and disempowered or disengaged and not taking action while time slips away and they don't actually experience what they want.

In this section you will transform how you feel about money, get clear about what you really value, and have specific, powerful actions you can take that make it easy for you to make life-changing decisions.
